In response to the Commission's January 4th, 2005 Request for Additional Information:

A thorough review of the Committee's 48 Hour reporting procedures resulted in a change in processing that should eliminate any future filing items for 48 Hour notices.

The Committee also incorporates the three levels of disclosing the identity of individual contributors. First, the Committee's fundraising and solicitation materials clearly states federal law requirements for contributors giving to a Federal campaign. Second, the Committee sends one letter to each contributor that fails to disclose identification information requesting said information (copies of all letters received back from contributors are filed with the Committee). Third, when requested identification information is received by the Committee, that information is amended to the reports and filed with the Commission.
